THE WASHINGTON CHURCHES

METHODIST.

The centennial of the death of Bishop Francis Asbury, one of the founders of American Methodism, will be observed in all Methodist churches tomorrow. Bishop Asbury died on March 21, 1816. Extensive plans have been laid for the appropriate observance of the occasion and a fund is being secured which is to be used to erect in Washington an equestrian statue of Bishop Asbury.

Concerning this method of doing honor to the bishop's memory the Christian Advocate (New York), says: "The proposal to erect a statue to Francis Asbury in Washington has struck a good many of the eight million Methodists as the one best way of commemorating the centennial of the death of the pioneer bishop. It will be the only statue of a Methodist, as such, ever erected in the United States. The public squares of the National Capital are well populated with bronze, but most of the figures on foot and on horseback are in the uniform of fighting men and reveal but a single phase in the history of our land. It is eminently fitting that the leader who, more than any other, typifies the spread of the Christian civilization over this continent should stand with the heroes of the sword."

"It will be an equestrian statue. This gives it unique interest. It makes it representative of the circuit rider, who lived in the saddle, and whose saddlebags carried not only the Bible but all manner of civilizing literature from the eastern to the western mountains of the western waters. The time is coming when these men, of whom Francis Asbury was the greatest, will be recognized as the true Pilgrim Fathers of the new America, whose grandeur Asbury was almost the first to prophesy. As it will for him, their leader, and the sculptor's directions are to make horse, rider and equipment representative of that glorious apostolic company."

Ministers in attendance at the 132nd annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in session this week in Alexandria, will occupy the pulpits of Washington churches of this denomination tomorrow. The churches and speakers assigned to each are as follows:

EPISCOPAL.

The first result of the Lenten Mission, which may prove of permanent value to the church, aside from the good done to individuals, is the formation of a "prayer league" at St. Mark's Church by the people who have been attending the daily services of Intercessory Prayer. Yesterday morning those in attendance at the prayer meeting met together after the service to discuss the plan to continue the Intercessions which have proved so helpful during the Mission. At this meeting there were representatives of all the parishes in the eastern section of the city. It was decided to have approval of the Rectors, a branch of the league should be established in each parish, the members of the league to pledge a certain amount of time to Intercessory Prayer in the church each week. The subjects to be prayed for by the league will be sent to the secretary each month by clergymen or others. There have been many direct answers to prayers offered at St. Mark's since the mission began. For this and other reasons those who have been attending want to continue this work of prayer for individuals in need or for institutions, or whatever it may be.

Last night in St. Mark's "resolution cards" were distributed to several hundred persons who asked for them. These cards will be signed by the Missioner and the persons making requests, and are to be kept as a souvenir of the Mission. Those who have kept the Mission and made resolutions will renew their solemn vows tomorrow night at the thanksgiving service. Then a "Deum" will be sung in thanksgiving for God's mercies. Dean Vernon said in the course of his sermon last night that "God's grace is sufficient for all things. His free gift of power can help us to overcome all temptations. There is nothing so hopeless as temptation. All a man has to do is to keep on fighting with his temptations; he will overcome by them at times perhaps, but there comes the hour of triumph, when the soul has overcome at last, and enters into life."

Rev. F. Ward Denys will preach in Trinity Church, Third and "C" streets, northwest, tomorrow at 11 o'clock on the subject, "Religion and Politics," this being the second in a series of three sermons.

At the Metropolitan Baptist Church, Fourth and Virginia avenue southeast, tomorrow evening at 7:45, the pastor, Rev. Howard L. Stewart, will give the sixth New Testament tragedy entitled, "The Tragedy of a Nameless Slave." There will also be baptism at the evening service. At 11 a. m. Mr. Stewart will discuss "The Armor of Light." Over one hundred new members have joined this church in the last six months.

Rev. John E. Briggs will preach at Fifth Baptist Church tomorrow morning. At night Congressman James Harvey Davis, of Texas, usually known as "Cyclone" Davis, will speak on "Temperance and Prohibition." Mr. Davis is known as one of the strongest stump speakers in America and is full of wit and quick at repartee.
